Chapter 1 by Story Wars

He was facing a dilemma whether to leave everything and go or just stay and complete his education. Anurup had completely different opinion about what life meant to him. He was above all those attractions like money, power, luxuries etc. For him, life was just a chance where he could do whatever he wanted to, exclude the ones that require money. He always dreamt of working hard in order to earn his living for himself.

People might think he wouldn't have a bright future but he never wanted things planned. He had a theory that people often like surprises rather than planned occasions. So he wanted to try the same with his life. He was set with his plan and also wanted to leave. The only thing that holded him back was his friends and family. He never had the intention to hurt them. Finally he decided a date to leave and leave a note for everyone. He was just waiting for the day.

Chapter 2 by Anuroop Mahanta

Days passed by, and he was still confused whether he should leave or not. He knew that, if he had to live for himself then he had to leave behind his family and friends too. That was the only reason he hadn't decided anything yet. He knew that when he would leave, his friends and family would be worried about him.

He had a very simple thought about what life is? For him, it was just a dream where he couldn't control things. Sometimes, family and friends are a burden for him. Like they wanted to stop him from achieving his dream. One thinking lead to dubiety.

One day he just gave up to the thought of thinking about himself. He wanted to do good for others. He gave up his dream life for his friends and family. He was happy with it. He didn't know if he was going right or wrong but he knew that he wouldn't hurt anyone. This gave him the strength to continue his life. He started focusing on studies because he wanted to do well in his examination.

People often think that doing good for themselves will make them happy but it's simply the opposite. If you hurt someone while achieving your goals. You will always find yourself guilty. Even if you want to ignore that fact.
